NEW STATE WILL HAVE MANY MANUFACTURES

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Bureau of the Census has just made public the statistics of manufacturers for 1905, of the four territories it is proposed to bring into the Union as two states. These figures show that, if joined, Oklahoma and Indian Territory will have as a state far greater manufacturing importance than perhaps any of the States had at the time of their admission.

The value of Indian Territory's manufacture's last year, for example, was $7,909,451, an increase of more than 200 per cent over the value of the manufactures of 1900. The value of Oklahoma's manufactured products last year was $16,549,656, an increase in five years of 200.6 per cent, or just .02 per cent less than the increase in Indian Territory.

There are 466 manufacturing establishments in Indian Territory, an increase of 160 per cent and 676 in Oklahoma, an increase of 107 per cent. In Indian Territory the capital invested in manufacturing is $5,016,654, an increase of 215 per cent in five years, and in Oklahoma $11,107,763, an increase of 315 per cent.

There are 2,257 wage earners in Indian Territory, earning $1,144,078 annually, and 3,199 in Oklahoma, earning $1,655,324. The new state, therefore, would have nearly 5,500 men engaged in the labor of factories.

TWO MEN APPREHENDED FOR SASAKWA KILLING

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 19.—Deputy Marshal John Cordell of Wewoka has brought to Muskogee Barney Fixico and an Indian known as "Wild Cat," who with several others are charged with the killing of Billy Cully, a prominent Seminole Indian light horse man, five miles west of Sasakwa on the night of Feb. 3.

Deputy Marshal Bass Reeves of this city identified "Wild Cat" as an Indian he arrested twenty years ago while he was Deputy United States Marshal at Fort Smith. The jail records substantiate Reeves. The officer was sent to the territory to arrest "Wild Cat" and while on his way to the Arkansas line the Indian escaped and this is the first time the officers have seen him since. It was thought the man was dead long ago.

A Failure at Stonewall.

The Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, of Stonewall, a territorial corporation which has been doing largely a land and trading business, closed its doors last Saturday.

The same day a suit was filed in the clerk's office at Ada against the company by the Union National Bank of Kansas City, Mo. It was a complaint in equity alleging defendant owes plaintiff $2,500; that defendant is insolvent; has fraudulently transferred its assets; praying for dissolution of the company; an accounting by its officers and for a receiver to take charge of its property and business.

S. O. Daws, president of the Indian Farmers' Union, came down from Shawnee today and spent a few hours in Ada.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF GEN. WHEELER

Sunday afternoon the members of the W. L. Byrd Camp Confederate Veterans met in the News building pursuant to arrangements. Because of the continuous downpour of rain, the elaborate Wheeler memorial service announced to occur at the Presbyterian Church had to be postponed until the 25th. There was a short business session of the camp. Otis B. Weaver of the U. S. C. V., tendered the veterans the use of the News building for their meetings, which offer was gratefully accepted by the camp.

Comrade J. P. Wood introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the body.

Whereas, The members of the Wm. L. Byrd Camp of Confederate Veterans have heard with profound sorrow of the death of our distinguished Comrade, General Joseph Wheeler of Alabama, and

Whereas, We, even in our grief, are proud of our ever loyal comrade, be it therefore resolved:

1st. That in the death of General Joseph Wheeler the South has lost one of her most devoted sons and the nation one of her ablest defenders, who was distinguished by courage without rashness, by wisdom without pride, by gentleness without weakness, by patience without headlessness and by justice which always leans towards mercy.

2d. That we declare that both at peace and in war he discharged his whole duty as he saw it.

3d. That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this camp and that the newspapers of Ada be requested to publish the same.

J. P. Wood,
J. M. Doss,
J. A. Morgan,
Committee.

Unanimously adopted by Wm. L. Byrd Camp, Feb. 18, 1905.

WERE MARRIED AMID SCENES OF SPLENDOR

Washington, Feb. 18.—With a plain circlet of virgin gold, in the historical East Room of the White House at thirteen minutes past 12 o'clock Saturday, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the Representative in Congress from the First District of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service. No ceremony of a similar kind was ever witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal commissioners of the Kings and potentates of the Powers of the civilized world constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest but the most distinguished that ever was witnessed at one time in the White House.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic White House history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride, according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth within its classic walls.

The ceremony took place in the East Room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations and the brilliant sunlight of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

PRESIDENT WILL PROBE TERRITORIAL CORRUPTION

Washington, Feb. 19.—President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the charges of fraud and corruption which are said to have occurred in connection with the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes in Indian Territory. But for his interference indictments against several parties alleged to have been engaged in illegal practices would have been quashed. Now, however, under his orders the Interior Department is pushing its investigation with increased vigor and it is reliably stated that in the near future a number of new indictments will be reported against not only several men already indicted, but they will also include a number of persons whose names have not heretofore been brought into the case, including a high Government official in Washington.

It is known that Secretary Hitchcock has submitted to the President and to the Attorney General a special report dealing with the whole subject, which, it is said, gives such details as to make it imperative for the Government to act. For obvious reasons the report for the present, at least, will not be made public, but Secretary Hitchcock characterizes the disclosures it makes as "startling."

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

Prickly Ash Bitters

A Remedy that Has Proved Its Value For Blood, Kidney and Bowel Disorders in a Brilliant Record of Cures Performed.

It is the right medicine for such purpose, the best and greatest system cleanser and regulator. It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently urge the vital organs to a better and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

Some dealers will try to sell you something which they say is just as good as PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. DON'T TAKE IT. Get the genuine with the large figure 3 in red on the front label. It will give you the results you desire. Put up in 19 ounce bottles. Price, 1.00.

Sold by all Druggists.

GRASS.

Did you ever notice how eagerly the cora-fed horse seeks the grass in the Spring? Not solely because he's hungry, instinct tells him he needs it. His system demands a tonic and purgative to drive out impurities, and the young tender grass is his natural medicine. All animal nature craves its particular "Spring Tonic" and purifier and none have greater need of it than the human animal. Man, because none give their digestive organs so much abuse. All men acknowledge nature's cry for relief from Winter's impurities, but there are thousands who do nothing to satisfy this need, and it is among these that disease reaps its harvest of death every year. The man who knows the value of a strong vigorous body when hot weather works a drain upon his strength will use for a couple of weeks in the early Spring a good blood purifier and system regulator; and where can you find a better remedy for this purpose than PRICKLY ASH BITTERS; the great blood, liver and bowel cleanser and system regulator that has done so much for working people. It vitalizes the blood and puts the entire system in condition for Summer work. Try it.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

COURAGE WAS APPRECIATED.

IN the winter of 1864 Lee's army was in camp along the Rapidan River. The Union forces under Meade occupied the country across the river. General Merritt was then a cavalry commander, and the cavalry were always busy making reconnaissances, although the severity of the weather had suspended other operations. General Merritt tells this story:

One morning in February my division of cavalry started with instructions to discover the extent of the enemy's force on the Rapidan without bringing on a general engagement. In due time we found ourselves face to face with the enemy, and the river between. A lively skirmish with small arms began, but the result was insignificant. The enemy declined to show force beyond what was necessary to engage our skirmish line. The breastworks were long and formidable, but whether they were occupied by few or many soldiers our most ingenious plans failed to discover.

It was finally decided that the only way to make the enemy show his force was to try to cross the ford in our front. If this succeeded, the enemy was to be driven out of his works, if possible; if not, he would drive us back across the ford, probably with severe loss to our troops. Reluctantly, under these conditions, the division was organized for the work.

Leading the advance guard, which consisted of a squadron of cavalry, was Captain Ash. His instructions contemplated that only his advance guard should cross. It was hoped that this maneuver would draw the enemy from behind his breastworks and cause him to display his force. Ash advanced with his squadron amid the stillness of death. The skirmish firing was hushed, and the silence which prevailed showed that the enemy was intent on keeping us in ignorance of their numbers and determined to make us pay heavily for information.

The anxiety was intense. We knew that when the enemy opened fire at short range our loss would be great, and that the advance guard must be the first and greatest sufferers. Ash, with his small command, moved on. The works in front, gloomy, silent, denuded, seemed deserted. The men started to cross the ford, and Ash pushed on ahead. He gained a point of vantage where, because of a turn in the river, he could see the interior of the breastworks.

Just then the Confederates opened fire with a withering volley. Suddenly Ash commanded his squadron to retreat, while he, bending forward on his horse's neck, rode at a rapid gallop along the river bank parallel to the breastworks, followed, as he came opposite each new part of the works, by volley after volley.

There seemed no hope for him, and we waited in intense anxiety. On he kept, in spite of the storm of lead. Then, as he reached a point where his view of the Confederate lines was still more extended, he raised his hat and waved it over his head. It was a signal of triumph.

To our amazement, the Confederates, moved by admiration, ceased firing. Instead, they mounted on the breastworks as thick as they could stand, and throwing their hats into the air, cheered him again and again.

Ash reined up his horse, and turning toward the Confederates, raised his hat in a graceful salute. Then he rode leisurely into our own lines, amid the cheers of both sides. He had accomplished the work without the loss of a man, and had for himself seen, and displayed to every one else, a full force of infantry occupying the Confederate works.

Captain Ash said afterward that he had not thought of the scheme of drawing out the enemy's force until he had reached the brink of the river and saw the great number who occupied the works. To go on meant certain death to many of his command; to retreat in the direct line of fire was equally disastrous; and the inspiration to do what he did suddenly seized him.

I need not say that as we cheered the bold rider our hearts went out to the generous foe who appreciated and chivalrously acknowledged a gallant act.

OUTWITTING THE PRUSSIANS.

The little village of Joses is situated on the route covered by the Prussians in the Franco-Prussian War of 1871. The peasants of the neighborhood never weary of relating their experiences with the soldiers from over the border.

The Prussian soldiers had a little way of carrying off with them any good horses they came across. Monsieur Lemaire owned the finest horse in the village, and was determined not to give the animal up if he could help it. A company of soldiers passed through the town, picking up several horses as they went, much to the chagrin of their owners. After the raid was over the neighbors were surprised to learn that Monsieur Lemaire's horse had not been among those seized. The quick-witted Frenchman had tied a piece of twine about the horse's hind leg, almost stopping the flow of blood. The leg swelled, and the animal became so lame that the officers who saw him in the pasture did not even make an attempt to take him. After the passing of the soldiery, the string was removed and the member carefully bandaged. In a week the horse was as well as ever.

At various times the peasants were compelled to quarter the soldiers. Not only were they forced to supply food and lodging, but anything of value in the house was pretty likely to be seized by the unwelcome visitors. The pride of one little home was a clock that had been owned by the family for nearly a century. When it was learned that the soldiers were coming, at the suggestion of the mater familias the clock was taken to pieces and the parts hidden in different places about the house.

The soldiers arrived. After they had been there a couple of days the peasant returned from his work at night to find the clock standing on the shelf, ticking away as usual. One of the Prussians, being of a mechanical turn, had discovered the ruse. He had accordingly hunted up all the pieces of the clock and put them together. The soldiers were ordered elsewhere a day or two later, but the clock was left behind.

All through that section of the country, known as the "granary of France," there are windmills. Unlike the mills of Holland, or the very modern windmills of our own farms, which turn as the wind shifts, the huge fans of the French mills are turned about by a hand-lever.

During the war these mills did good service in indicating to the French officers the whereabouts of the Prussian army. The fans of the mills were arranged so that they faced the spot where the forces of the enemy were the thickest, the mills thus serving as signals that could be seen a long distance away. The Prussians never learned the trick, which was employed all through the war.

SAVED BY A WHISTLE.

The pure white color of the mountain sheep of Alaska makes him very conspicuous except when he is lying on a snow patch, and in the clear air of the Alaskan mountains one can see sheep for a long distance. Colonel Kane, in "Summer and Fall in Western Alaska," tells of following a band of these mountain sheep over a desolate stretch of country, only to lose a shot at them through the approach of another enemy.

We had just arrived at the canon and were still out of sight, when we saw the five big fellows leisurely crossing by a narrow sheep trail some distance below us. They did not go far, but lay down on the opposite slope on a spot from which we were full in sight, but where they could be easily got at once we could get into the ravine among the broken ground.

To do this, however, required very careful crawling in full view, over absolutely broken ground, consisting of a steep slope of shale; and the only way to reach a practicable path into the canon was by descending until we were in full view of all the rest of the sheep, which were lying about in groups on a flat plateau.

We had very nearly got to a position of safety, and were lying perfectly motionless, looking at the sheep below us through the glass, and also watching the antics of several large gray marmots which were feeding about among them, when a catastrophe occurred. The marmots all of a sudden began, each and all, to whistle for all they were worth, and to bolt frantically for their holes.

In a second every sheep was on its legs, and our five patriarchs, after standing a moment in indecision, bolted as hard as they could go, and in less time than it takes to write it not a sheep was in sight.

I felt quite certain that we were not the cause of this stampede; indeed, the sheep seemed quite unsuspicious until disturbed by the marmots, and I could not make it out at all until I chanced to look upward, when I saw two fine golden eagles sailing overhead, evidently beating for game. This must have frightened the marmots, and perhaps the ewes also had fears for the safety of their lambs.

A MOTHER'S TERRIBLE PLIGHT.

A poignant story of a mother's terrible experience was told at an inquest held at Hilgay, a village near Downham Market, Norfolk. A boy of two, named Arthur Leonard Knightball, was found by his mother to have fallen into a ditch. She jumped to his rescue and lifted the little lad out of the water, but became herself so firmly embedded in the mud, which was up to her knees, that she was unable to climb out of the ditch. All her struggles to move proved useless, and her screams for help were not heard. While thus a prisoner her boy died in her arms, and she cried over his body for an hour and a half before her husband and a fellow-workman, returning home, rescued her, exhausted by her burden and almost fainting with grief. The jury at the inquest complimented the mother, and expressed sympathy with the parents.—London Mail.

A PHILIPPINE HEROINE.

Not many years ago the Philippines produced a lady fighter of rare courage in Josephine Bracken, whose lover, Jose Rizal, had been brutally shot by the Spaniards on the very eve of his marriage to her. From the moment that Jose fell riddled by the bullets of a picket of the Tenth Spanish Infantry Regiment his fiancée dedicated her life to revenge. She joined the insurgents and fought for many months in the thickest of every battle, with a recklessness which amazed all who saw her. She bore a charmed life, and after escaping death a hundred times she undertook a journey to Japan, and later to America, to procure arms. She is living to-day at Hong-Kong quite ready, no doubt, to shoulder a rifle again against the murderers of her lover.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

CHEESE CAKES.

Boil one pound of sugar in two-thirds of a pint of water for fifteen minutes. Stir in one and a half cups of coconut and boil fifteen minutes longer. Add a quarter of a pound of butter and lastly the yolks of seven eggs well beaten. Bake in patty pans lined with rich paste.

DREAM SANDWICHES.

Chop fine one-half cup pecan nuts, one-half cup stoned raisins, one apple, add juice of half a lemon and one spoonful sugar. Mix thoroughly and spread thinly between thin slices of buttered bread from which the crust has been removed.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD.

Two cupsful of yellow cornmeal, one cupful of rye meal, one cupful of flour, two cupsful of milk, one cupful of molasses, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well together, pour into a well-greased brown-bread mold and steam for four hours.

MACARONI WITH OYSTERS.

Cook for twenty minutes or until soft one-quarter of a pound of macaroni in salted boiling water. Place half in a buttered dish, then put in one point of oysters dried, rolled in seasoned crumbs and then in grated cheese. Cover with the remainder of the macaroni; pour over an egg beaten with a cup of thin cream and saltspoonful of salt; sprinkle lightly with grated cheese and bake in a quick oven until richly browned.

APRICOT TAPIOCA.

Soak one cupful of fine tapioca for two hours in sufficient cold water to cover. Drain, put into a double boiler with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and the syrup drained from a can of apricots, adding boiling water sufficient to give three cupsful of liquid. Add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and cook until transparent. Cut each piece of apricot into three and put in layers in a pudding dish with the cooked tapioca. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven and serve with cream.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine oil.

Cloves or salt sprinkled on a pantry shelf will rid it of ants.

Oily water can be cleared by adding a few spoonfuls of cornmeal.

A pinch of salt in the coffee pot will improve aroma of the coffee.

Bathing the face in cold water while it is hot and flushed will make the skin coarse.

A good nap and a hot bath will add much to the beauty of a homely woman.

A lump of camphor in your wardrobe will keep steel buttons and ornaments from tarnishing.

Dry the potato peelings, and by using these you can light a fire with about four pieces of firewood.

Geranium leaves are said to form a good dressing for cuts and wounds where the skin is rubbed off.

A spoonful of mustard in a gallon of water will kill insects in the earth. This is good for potted plants.

A tablespoonful of coal oil in a basin of water will clean window glasses and mirrors and not leave them clouded.

If hot soda and thorough flushing will not keep pipes sweet there is something wrong with the plumbing.

Never throw away bits of cheese, even if they are hard and dry. Grate them and put them aside in a jar, for seasoning.

The boiling of corks for a few minutes will cause them to slip easily into the neck of the bottle for which they are intended.

Coal oil will destroy bedbugs. Use plentifully. It will leave no stain—it evaporates. It will clean furniture and remove white stains.

A solution of salt and water is an excellent remedy for sore throat, an unequalled wash for weak eyes—or eyes that are inflamed and sore.

Particles of grease sometimes lodge in the sink pipe and cause an unpleasant odor. The hot soda dissolves this grease and carries it away.

An old refrigerator which has a lining of tin may be made to look cleaner by applying two coats of white paint, and then two coats of white enamel.

No substance that might clog the pipes should ever be thrown into closet or basin. Here are some of the things: Hair, lint, pieces of rags, no matter how small, matches and fruit peelings.

Powdered charcoal is the best remedy for a superficial burn. If laid thickly on the injured part immediately it will take away the pain and heal the burn very rapidly.

If shelves and floors of closets are wiped with water which is hot with cayenne pepper, and afterwards sprinkled with borax and alum, roaches and other vermin are kept at bay.

Flowers keep better in damp sand than in water, and a centerpiece of flowers for the table may be more gracefully and firmly arranged in a jar of wet sand than in a foundation of moss.

"By changing your complexion. The kind you are using now doesn't taste good to me."—Detroit Tribune.

SCARED OUT.

"Why did the Earl break the engagement?"
"Oh, he became afraid, when he found out her father was president of a life insurance company, that the old man would appoint him a vice-president or give him some other kind of a job that would make it necessary for him to at least memorize the figures referring to the assets and liabilities."—Chicago Record-Herald.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

TYRANNY OF FASHION.

Under examination in Brighton Bankruptcy Court yesterday a Hove tailor attributed his failure to the change of fashion brought about by the use of motor-cars. A considerable portion of his business formerly consisted, he stated, in supplying liveries for people who kept carriages, and who required liveries for their coachmen and footmen, as well as two or three others employed in the stables. But with motor-cars the only person requiring livery was the chauffeur, who generally obtained his clothes elsewhere than at a tailor's.—London Telegraph.

SMOKING FASHIONABLE.

Smocking is always good in children's gowns. At some of the shops where a specialty is made of handsome garments, fancy smocking is done at not exactly prohibitive prices. For tiny girls, the prettiest little gowns imaginable are made in perfectly simple models. The smocking occurs in the yoke and cuffs of the slips, which are straight little garments something like those worn by Kate Greenaway picture book children. Very simple and inexpensive materials are used for these gowns, ginghams, coarse linens, pongees and china silks being best adapted. Smocked waists are very effective for older girls and even mature women.

BRACELET FAD BEMOANED.

It is hard for the woman who can't afford fads in jewelry to hear that five jeweled bracelets must be worn this year if one wishes to be in the extreme of the fashion. "Why not make it six?" she asks, for in that event the jeweler might make a reduction on the lot, which would help things along a little. Mrs. William B. Leeds has caught this bracelet mania and lately has been seen wearing four gold circlets set with black and white pearls on one of her beauteous arms, which some one has said are "fashioned after the Venus of Milo's long lost pattern." On the other arm was a single band of the same design. Bracelets worn by fashionable women this season must match in color tone, even though they are entirely different in design and cost. The triumph of the bracelet, jewelers say, will occur about the time the opera season begins and social festivity is let loose in New York. Then the rivalry in this line will be worth going out of one's way to see.

A WOMAN ENGINEER.

Mrs. W. G. Manning, who lives seven miles south of Monroe City, is probably the only woman engineer in Missouri. Her husband operates a sawmill, and for two years Mrs. Manning has acted as engineer. Mr. Manning says: "Prior to two years ago I employed men at different times as engineer, all of whom were more or less unsatisfactory. Upon one occasion the engineer did not show up. My wife told me to turn the engine over to her. "At first I hesitated, but finally decided to let her try it. To my surprise she handled the engine all right and we did one of the best day's work of the season. For two years she has run the engine with little expense for repairs. She readily detects lost motion or other defects, and when necessary, will shut down to make repairs. If the log is a large one or knotty she regulates the power accordingly, and keeps the speed uniform. "I've tried several engineers, but she's the best one I ever had."—Philadelphia Record.

CHILDREN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

For small children there is a new Jack Horner pie which is charming. A great ball, three or four feet in diameter, is made of light wires twisted in shape and covered with paper, with a number of little gifts tied up, each one fastened to a ribbon which falls out of a hole in the under side of the ball. Then flat paper roses are pasted all over the outside. This is suspended from the ceiling; the children are given the ribbons and warned to hold them lightly without pulling, and have a pretty in-and-out dance, and at its close all are told to pull the ribbons, when down comes a shower of gifts from the ball. A new and quiet game of hide-and-seek is called "cuckoo." The children sit in a circle on the floor, and one child leaves the room and hides, calling, when hidden, "Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" The rest must sit still and guess where the child is, guided by the calls which keep on from time to time. As soon as the place is guessed the one who is right hides, and the other comes back to the circle.—Harper's Bazar.

THE AILING HABIT.

There are a great number of people who have fallen into the habit of never feeling well. No matter how soundly they sleep, how good their appetites, or how healthy they appear to be, every inquiry in regard to their condition receives the same stereotyped depressing answer: "Not very well." "About the same," or "Not so well."

They are like the sailors who tell their pet yarns so often they really come to believe them themselves. This ailing habit is especially active during the spring. People who suffer from this habit will find that self-confidence is a wonderful tonic. Their resisting power, that innate force which is given for self-protection is a safeguard against mental and physical ills.

Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Robert Louis Stevenson, Dr. Samuel Johnson and many other eminent men conquered real physical ills in order to pursue their work. If they had declined to work because of not feeling very well they would never have accomplished anything of note.

Don't allow yourself to become a slave to the miserable little absorbers of health and happiness.

WOMEN OF THE GREAT WEST.

We mentioned to some friends that we had aimed to acquire a little wisdom on the simple life, by studying these new countries; but they went into spasms of impolite laughter at the suggestion. It seems that the women hold on to all the frills they used to know, and acquire all the new ones they can hear of, as a means of proving their social status and of transforming their present place of residence into the nearest possible semblance of the one they left behind. When they move into town, off the ranches, and discard sunbonnets and Mother Hubbards, they wear chiffer hats with brims a few inches wider than eastern modes. After a few years of town and club life they become—oh, wearisomely like everyone else! One of them, herself a woman of brains and energy said that no one lived the simple life here, because none had the strength of mind to follow the recipe.

"And that is?" we asked.
"Just to be yourself," she answered. And we thought she was quite right.—Marion Foster Washburne, in Harper's Bazar.

MAKE HOME ATTRACTIVE.

To the up-to-date homemaker this question of making the home attractive after the dinner hour is the most important one, and the shading of artificial light is the secret of the room beautiful when old Sol is out of sight. Of the four methods by which this is accomplished, the oil lamp is the coziest and for practical purposes the most artistic. Especially in winter nights it sheds a warm glow over a room, and a good book or the evening paper under its steady light is enjoyed in solid comfort.—Indianapolis News.

-Pretty-Things-to-Wear

A prominent nose wants a hat prominent in outline.

Tonches of velvet abound in all silk and light wool gowns.

Lace coats are a salient feature of fall style for inferior wear and are appearing in almost all kinds of lace.

Lace robes, in princesses, Lierre, Irish crochet and Chantilly, are elected for widespread favor for evening wear.

Velvet vests sometimes accompany coats of broadcloth. Tonches of gold are prevalent in autumn toilettes and in evening cloaks.

Moire ribbons, from inch-wide to sash width, will be used in trimmings of gowns and coats of broadcloth, in conjunction with other trimmings.

Many specimins in hand-made lace, and there is a tendency toward the more general wearing of hand laces than in many years.

The new Japanese and Persian bands in dress trimming lines are the most attractive shown in many seasons. They will be a strong feature of dress and coat decorations.

The current season will be an exceptional one for silk waistings, Plaids, checks and small brocade designs all appear in full waists for wear under costume coats. Also moires in fancy effect.

Caracul, dyed the color of the cloth, is being used for trimmings and accessories of coats and costumes of broadcloth. Sable, broadtail, ermine and mink are the popular furs for the purpose.

Twotone or changeable chiffon cloth is one of the novelties of the season for evening gowns. The radium silks, for the same purpose, are shown in the retail stores in a variety of exquisite shades.

Twelve million six hundred thousand is the estimate of the number of the famous Rocky Ford cantaloupes shipped from the Rocky Ford district, in Colorado, last season.

NEW STATE WILL HAVE MANY MANUFACTURES

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Bureau of the Census has just made public the statistics of manufacturers for 1905, of the four territories it is proposed to bring into the Union as two states. These figures show that, if joined, Oklahoma and Indian Territory will have as a state far greater manufacturing importance than perhaps any of the States had at the time of their admission.

The value of Indian Territory's manufacture's last year, for example, was $7,909,451, an increase of more than 200 per cent over the value of the manufactures of 1900. The value of Oklahoma's manufactured products last year was $16,549,656, an increase in five years of 200.6 per cent, or just .02 per cent less than the increase in Indian Territory.

There are 466 manufacturing establishments in Indian Territory, an increase of 160 per cent and 676 in Oklahoma, an increase of 107 per cent. In Indian Territory the capital invested in manufacturing is $5,016,654, an increase of 215 per cent in five years, and in Oklahoma $11,107,763, an increase of 315 per cent.

There are 2,257 wage earners in Indian Territory, earning $1,144,078 annually, and 3,199 in Oklahoma, earning $1,655,324. The new state, therefore, would have nearly 5,500 men engaged in the labor of factories.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF GEN. WHEELER

Sunday afternoon the members of the W. L. Byrd Camp Confederate Veterans met in the News building pursuant to arrangements. Because of the continuous downpour of rain, the elaborate Wheeler memorial service announced to occur at the Presbyterian Church had to be postponed until the 23th. There was a short business session of the camp. Otis B. Weaver of the U. S. C. V., tendered the veterans the use of the News building for their meetings, which offer was gratefully accepted by the camp.

Comrade J. P. Wood introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the body.

Whereas, The members of the Wm. L. Byrd Camp of Confederate Veterans have heard with profound sorrow of the death of our distinguished Comrade, General Joseph Wheeler of Alabama, and, Whereas, We, even in our grief, are proud of our ever loyal comrade, be it therefore resolved: 1st. That in the death of General Joseph Wheeler the South has lost one of her most devoted sons and the nation one of her ablest defenders, who was distinguished by courage without rashness, by wisdom without pride, by gentleness without weakness, by patience without headlessness and by justice which always leans towards mercy.

2d. That we declare that both at peace and in war he discharged his whole duty as he saw it.

3d. That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this camp and that the newspapers of Ada be requested to publish the same.

J. P. Wood,
J. M. Dos,
J. A. Morgan,
Committee.

Unanimously adopted by Wm. L. Byrd Camp, Feb. 18, 1905.

WERE MARRIED AMID SCENES OF SPLENDOR

Washington, Feb. 18.—With a plain circlet of virgin gold, in the historical East Room of the White House at thirteen minutes past 12 o'clock Saturday, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the Representative in Congress from the First District of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service. No ceremony of a similar kind was ever witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal commissioners of the Kings and potentates of the Powers of the civilized world constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest but the most distinguished that ever was witnessed at one time in the White House.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic White House history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride, according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth within its classic walls.

The ceremony took place in the East Room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations and the brilliant sunlight of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

PRESIDENT WILL PROBE TERRITORIAL CORRUPTION

Washington, Feb. 19.—President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the charges of fraud and corruption which are said to have occurred in connection with the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes in Indian Territory. But for his interference indictments against several parties alleged to have been engaged in illegal practices would have been quashed. Now, however, under his orders the Interior Department is pushing its investigation with increased vigor and it is reliably stated that in the near future a number of new indictments will be reported against not only several men already indicted, but they will also include a number of persons whose names have not heretofore been brought into the case, including a high Government official in Washington.

It is known that Secretary Hitchcock has submitted to the President and to the Attorney General a special report dealing with the whole subject, which, it is said, gives such details as to make it imperative for the Government to act. For obvious reasons the report for the present, at least, will not be made public, but Secretary Hitchcock characterizes the disclosures it makes as "startling."

TWO MEN APPREHENDED FOR SASAKWA KILLING

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 19.—Deputy Marshal John Cordell of Wevoka has brought to Muskogee Barney Fixico and an Indian known as "Wild Cat," who with several others are charged with the killing of Billy Cully, a prominent Seminole Indian light horse man, five miles west of Sasakwa on the night of Feb. 3.

Deputy Marshal Bass Reeves of this city identified "Wild Cat" as an Indian he arrested twenty years ago while he was Deputy United States Marshal at Fort Smith. The jail records substantiate Reeves. The officer was sent to the territory to arrest "Wild Cat" and while on his way to the Arkansas line the Indian escaped and this is the first time the officers have seen him since. It was thought the man was dead long ago.

A Failure at Stonewall.

The Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, of Stonewall, a territorial corporation which has been doing largely a land and trading business, closed its doors last Saturday.

The same day a suit was filed in the clerk's office at Ada against the company by the Union National Bank of Kansas City, Mo. It was a complaint in equity alleging defendant owes plaintiff $2,500; that defendant is insolvent; has fraudulently transferred its assets; praying for dissolution of the company; an accounting by its officers and for a receiver to take charge of its property and business.

S. O. Daws, president of the Indian Farmers' Union, came down from Shawnee today and spent a few hours in Ada.

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

Prickly Ash Bitters

A Remedy that Has Proved Its Value For Blood, Kidney and Bowel Disorders in a Brilliant Record of Cures Performed.

It is the right medicine for such purpose, the best and greatest system cleanser and regulator. It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently urge the vital organs to a better and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

Some dealers will try to sell you something which they say is just as good as PRICKLY ASH BITTERS. DON'T TAKE IT. Get the genuine with the large figure 3 in red on the front label. It will give you the results you desire. Put up in 19 ounce bottles. Price, 1.00

Sold by all Druggists.

GRASS.

Did you ever notice how eagerly the corn-fed horse seeks the grass in the Spring? Not solely because he's hungry, instinct tells him he needs it. His system demands a tonic and purgative to drive out impurities, and the young tender grass is his natural medicine. All animal nature craves its particular 'Spring Tonic' and purifier and none have greater need of it than the human animal. Man, because none give their digestive organs so much abuse. All men acknowledge nature's cry for relief from Winter impurities, but there are thousands who do nothing to satisfy this need, and it is among these that disease reaps its harvest of death every year. The man who knows the value of a strong vigorous body when hot weather works a drain upon his strength will use for a couple of weeks in the early Spring a good blood purifier and system regulator, and where can you find a better remedy for this purpose than PRICKLY ASH BITTERS, the great blood, liver and bowel cleanser and system regulator that has done so much for working people. It vitalizes the blood and puts the entire system in condition for summer work. Try it.

In the United States Court for the Southern District of Indian Territory at Ada.

In the matter of Thomas A. Holman, bankrupt, in Bankruptcy No. 23: To the Honorable J. T. Dickerson, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of the Indian Territory:

Thomas A. Holman of Oklahoma, in the Southern District of the Indian Territory, in said district, respectfully represents that on the 10th day of April last past he was duly adjudged bankrupt under the acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the court touching his bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays that he may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts payable against his estate under said bankruptcy acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from discharge.

Dated this 17th day of February, A. D. 1909. Thomas A. Holman, Bankrupt.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

COURAGE WAS APPRECIATED.

In the winter of 1864 Lee's army was in camp along the Rapidan River. The Union forces under Meade occupied the country across the river. General Merritt was then a cavalry commander, and the cavalry were always busy making reconnaissances, although the severity of the weather had suspended other operations. General Merritt tells this story:

One morning in February my division of cavalry started with instructions to discover the extent of the enemy's force on the Rapidan without bringing on a general engagement. In due time we found ourselves face to face with the enemy, and the river between. A lively skirmish with small arms began, but the result was insignificant. The enemy declined to show force beyond what was necessary to engage our skirmish line. The breastworks were long and formidable, but whether they were occupied by few or many soldiers our most ingenious plans failed to discover.

It was finally decided that the only way to make the enemy show his force was to try to cross the ford in our front. If this succeeded, the enemy was to be driven out of his works, if possible; if not, he would drive us back across the ford, probably with severe loss to our troops. Reluctantly, under these conditions, the division was organized for the work.

Leading the advance guard, which consisted of a squadron of cavalry, was Captain Ash. His instructions contemplated that only his advance guard should cross. It was hoped that this maneuver would draw the enemy from behind his breastworks and cause him to display his force. Ash advanced with his squadron amid the stiffness of death. The skirmish firing was husbed, and the silence which prevailed showed that the enemy was intent on keeping us in ignorance of their numbers and determined to make us pay heavily for information.

The anxiety was intense. We knew that when the enemy opened fire at short range our loss would be great, and that the advanced guard must be the first and greatest sufferers. Ash, with his small command, moved on. The works in front, gloomy, silent, deserted, seemed deserted. The men started to cross the ford, and Ash pushed on ahead. He gained a point of vantage where, because of a turn in the river, he could see the interior of the breastworks.

Just then the Confederates opened fire with a withering volley. Suddenly Ash commanded his squadron to retreat, while he, bounding forward on his horse's neck, rode at a rapid gallop along the river bank parallel to the breastworks, followed, as he came opposite each new part of the works by volley after volley.

There seemed no hope for him, and we waited in intense anxiety. On he kept, in spite of the storm of lead. Then, as he reached a point where his view of the Confederate lines was still more extended he raised his hat and waved it over his head. It was a signal of triumph.

To our amazement, the Confederates, moved by admiration, ceased firing. Instead, they mounted on the breastworks as thick as they could stand, and throwing their hats into the air, cheered him again and again.

Ash reined up his horse, and turning toward the Confederates, raised his hat in a graceful salute. Then he rode leisurely into our own lines, amid the cheers of both sides. He had accomplished the work without the loss of a man, and had for himself seen, and displayed to every one else, a full force of infantry occupying the Confederate works.

Captain Ash said afterward that he had not thought of the scheme of drawing out the enemy's force until he had reached the brink of the river and saw the great number who occupied the works. To go on meant certain death to many of his command; to retreat in the direct line of fire was equally disastrous; and the inspiration to do what he did suddenly seized him.

I need not say that as we cheered the bold rider our hearts went out to the generous foe who appreciated and chivalrously acknowledged a gallant act.

OUTWITTING THE PRUSSIAN.

The little village of Josses is situated on the route covered by the Prussians in the Franco-Prussian War of 1871. The peasants of the neighborhood never weary of relating their experiences with the soldiers from over the border.

The Prussian soldiers had a little way of carrying off with them any good horses they came across. Monsieur Lemaire owned the finest horse in the village, and was determined not to give the animal up if he could help it. A company of soldiers passed through the town, picking up several horses as they went, much to the chagrin of their owners. After the raid was over the neighbors were surprised to learn that Monsieur Lemaire's horse had not been among those seized. The quick-witted Frenchman had tied a piece of twine about the horse's hind leg, almost stopping the flow of blood. The leg swelled, and the animal became so lame that the officers who saw him in the pasture did not even make an attempt to take him. After the passing of the soldiers, the string was removed and the member carefully bandaged. In a week the horse was as well as ever.

At various times the peasants were compelled to quarter the soldiers. Not only were they forced to supply food and lodging, but anything of value in the house was pretty likely to be seized by the unwelcome visitors. The pride of one little home was a clock that had been owned by the family for nearly a century. When it was learned that the soldiers were coming, at the suggestion of the mother families the clock was taken to pieces and the parts hidden in different places about the house.

The soldiers arrived. After they had been there a couple of days the peasant returned from his work at night to find the clock standing on the shelf, ticking away as usual. One of the Prussians, being of a mechanical turn, had discovered the ruse. He had accordingly hunted up all the pieces of the clock and put them together. The soldiers were ordered elsewhere a day or two later, but the clock was left behind.

All through that section of the country, known as the "granary of France," there are windmills. Unlike the mills of Holland, or the very modern windmills of our own farms, which turn as the wind shifts, the huge fans of the French mills are turned about by a hand-lever.

During the war these mills did good service in indicating to the French officers the whereabouts of the Prussian army. The fans of the mills were arranged so that they faced the spot where the forces of the enemy were the thickest, the mills thus serving as signals that could be seen a long distance away. The Prussians never learned the trick, which was employed all through the war.

SAVED BY A WHISTLE.

The pure white color of the mountain sheep of Alaska makes him very conspicuous except when he is lying on a snow patch, and in the clear air of the Alaskan mountains one can see sheep for a long distance. Colonel Case, in "Summer and Fall in Western Alaska," tells of following a band of these mountain sheep over a desolate stretch of country, only to lose a shot at them through the approach of another enemy.

We had just arrived at the canon and were still out of sight, when we saw the five big fellows leisurely crossing by a narrow sheep trail some distance below us. They did not go far, but lay down on the opposite slope on a spot from which we were full in sight, but where they could be easily got at once we could get into the ravine among the broken ground.

To do this, however, required very careful crawling in full view, over absolutely broken ground, consisting of a steep slope of shale, and the only way to reach a practicable path into the canon was by descending until we were in full view of all the rest of the sheep, which were lying about in groups on a flat plateau.

We had very nearly got to a position of safety, and were lying perfectly motionless, looking at the sheep below us through the glass, and also watching the antics of several large gray marmots which were feeding about among them, when a catastrophe occurred. The marmots all of a sudden began, each and all, to whistle for all they were worth, and to bolt frantically for their holes.

In a second every sheep was on its legs, and our five patriars, after standing a moment in indecision, bolted as hard as they could go, and in less time than it takes to write it not a sheep was in sight.

I felt quite certain that we were not the cause of this stampede. Indeed, the sheep seemed quite unsuspicious until disturbed by the marmots, and I could not make it out at all until I chanced to look upward, when I saw two fine golden eagles sailing overhead, evidently beating for game. This must have frightened the marmots, and perhaps the eagles also had fears for the safety of their lambs.

A MOTHER'S TERRIBLE FLIGHT.

A poignant story of a mother's terrible experience was told at an inquest held at Hilgazy, a village near Downham Market, Norfolk. A boy of two, named Arthur Leonard Knightlith, was found by his mother to have fallen into a ditch. She jumped to his rescue and lifted the little lad out of the water, but became herself so firmly embedded in the mud, which was up to her knees, that she was unable to climb out of the ditch. All her struggles to move proved useless, and her screams for help were not heard. While thus a prisoner her boy died in her arms, and she cried over his body for an hour and a half before her husband and a fellow-workman, returning home, rescued her, exhausted by her burden and almost fainting with grief. The jury at the inquest complimented the mother, and expressed sympathy with the parents.—London Mail.

A PHILIPPINE HEROINE.

Not many years ago the Philippines produced a lady fighter of rare courage in Josephine Bracken, whose lover, Jose Rizal, had been brutally shot by the Spaniards on the very eve of his marriage to her. From the moment that Jose fell riddled by the bullets of a picket of the Tenth Spanish Infantry Regiment his fiancée dedicated her life to revenge. She joined the insurgents and fought for many months in the thickest of every battle, with a recklessness which amazed all who saw her. She bore a charmed life, and after escaping death a hundred times she undertook a journey to Japan, and later to America, to procure arms. She is living to-day at Hong-Kong quite ready, no doubt, to shoulder a rifle again against the murderers of her lover.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

CHEESE CAKES.

Boil one pound of sugar in two-thirds of a pint of water for fifteen minutes. Stir in one and a half cups of coconut and boil fifteen minutes longer. Add a quarter of a pound of butter and lastly the yolks of seven eggs well beaten. Bake in patty pans lined with rich paste.

DREAM SANDWICHES.

Chop fine one-half cup pecan nuts, one-half cup stoned raisins, one apple, add juice of half a lemon and one spoonful sugar. Mix thoroughly and spread thinly between thin slices of buttered bread from which the crust has been removed.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD.

Two cupsful of yellow cornmeal, one cupful of rye meal, one cupful of flour, two cupsful of milk, one cupful of molasses, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well together, pour into a well-greased brown-bread mold and steam for four hours.

MACARONI WITH OYSTERS.

Cook for twenty minutes or until soft one-quarter of a pound of macaroni in salted boiling water. Place half in a buttered dish, then put in one point of oysters dried, rolled in seasoned crumbs and then in grated cheese. Cover with the remainder of the macaroni; pour over an egg beaten with a cup of thin cream and salt-portionful of salt; sprinkle lightly with grated cheese and bake in a quick oven until richly browned.

APRICOT TAPIOCA.

Soak one cupful of fine tapioca for two hours in sufficient cold water to cover. Drain, put into a double boiler with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and the syrup drained from a can of apricots, adding boiling water sufficient to give three cupsful of liquid. Add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and cook until transparent. Cut each piece of apricot into three and put in layers in a pudding dish with the cooked tapioca. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven and serve with cream.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine oil.

Cloves or salt sprinkled on a pantry shelf will rid it of ants.

Oily water can be cleared by adding a few spoonfuls of cornmeal.

A pinch of salt in the coffee pot will improve aroma of the coffee.

Bathing the face in cold water while it is hot and flushed will make the skin coarse.

A good nap and a hot bath will add much to the beauty of a homely woman.

A lump of camphor in your wardrobe will keep steel buttons and ornaments from tarnishing.

Dry the potato peelings, and by using these you can light a fire with about four pieces of firewood.

Ceranium leaves are said to form a good dressing for cuts and wounds where the skin is rubbed off.

A spoonful of mustard in a gallon of water will kill insects in the earth. This is good for potted plants.

A tablespoonful of coal oil in a basin of water will clean window glasses and mirrors and not leave them clouded.

If hot soda and thorough flushing will not keep pipes sweet there is something wrong with the plumbing.

Never throw away bits of cheese, even if they are hard and dry. Grate them and put them aside in a jar, for seasoning.

The boiling of corks for a few minutes will cause them to slip easily into the neck of the bottle for which they are intended.

Coal oil will destroy bedbugs. Use plentifully. It will leave no stain—it evaporates. It will clean furniture and remove white stains.

A solution of salt and water is an excellent remedy for sore throat, an unequalled wash for weak eyes—or eyes that are inflamed and sore.

Particles of grease sometimes lodge in the sink pipe and cause an unpleasant odor. The hot soda dissolves this grease and carries it away.

An old refrigerator which has a lining of tin may be made to look cleaner by applying two coats of white paint, and then two coats of white enamel.

No substance that might clog the pipes should ever be thrown into closet or basin. Here are some of the things: Hair, lint, pieces of rags, no matter how small, matches and fruit peelings.

Powdered charcoal is the best remedy for a superficial burn. If laid thickly on the injured part immediately it will take away the pain and heal the burn very rapidly.

If shelves and floors of closets are wiped with water which is hot with cayenne pepper, and afterwards sprinkled with borax and alum, roaches and other vermin are kept at bay.

Flowers keep better in damp sand than in water, and a centerpiece of flowers for the table may be more gracefully and firmly arranged in a jar of wet sand than in a foundation of moss.

INTEREST TO WOMEN

TYRANNY OF FASHION.

Under examination in Brighton Bankruptcy Court yesterday a Hove tailor attributed his failure to the change of fashion brought about by the use of motor-cars. A considerable portion of his business formerly consisted, he stated, in supplying liveries for people who kept carriages, and who required liveries for their coachmen and footmen, as well as two or three others employed in the stables. But with motor-cars the only person requiring livery was the chauffeur, who generally obtained his clothes elsewhere than at a tailor's.—London Telegraph.

SMOCKING FASHIONABLE.

Smocking is always good in children's gowns. At some of the shops where a specialty is made of handsome garments, fancy smocking is done at not exactly prohibitive prices. For tiny girls, the prettiest little gowns imaginable are made in perfectly simple models. The smocking occurs in the yoke and cuffs of the slips, which are straight little garments something like those worn by Kate Greenaway picture book children. Very simple and inexpensive materials are used for these gowns, ginghams, coarse linens, pongees, china silks being best adapted. Smocked waists are very effective for older girls and even mature women.

BRACELET FAD BEMOANED.

It is hard for the woman who can't afford fads in jewelry to hear that five jeweled bracelets must be worn this year if one wishes to be in the extreme of the fashion. "Why not make it six?" she asks, for in that event the jeweler might make a reduction on the lot, which would help things along a little. Mrs. William B. Leeds has caught this bracelet mania and lately has been seen wearing four gold circlets set with black and white pearls on one of her beauteous arms, which some one has said are "fashioned after the Venus of Milo's long lost pattern." On the other arm was a single band of the same design. Bracelets worn by fashionable women this season must match in color, tone, even though they are entirely different in design and cost. The triumph of the bracelet, jewelers say, will occur about the time the opera season begins and social festivity is let loose in New York. Then the rivalry in this line will be worth going out of one's way to see.

A WOMAN ENGINEER.

Mrs. W. G. Manning, who lives seven miles south of Monroe City, is probably the only woman engineer in Missouri.

Her husband operates a sawmill, and for two years Mrs. Manning has acted as engineer. Mr. Manning says:

"Prior to two years ago I employed men at different times as engineer, all of whom were more or less unsatisfactory. Upon one occasion the engineer did not show up. My wife told me to turn the engine over to her."

"At first I hesitated, but finally decided to let her try it. To my surprise she handled the engine all right and we did one of the best day's work of the season. For two years she has run the engine with little expense for repairs. She readily detects lost motion or other defects, and, when necessary, will shut down to make repairs. If the log is a large one or knotty she regulates the power accordingly, and keeps the speed uniform."

"I've tried several engineers, but she's the best one I ever had."—Philadelphia Record.

CHILDREN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

For small children there is a new Jack Horner pie which is charming. A great ball, three or four feet in diameter, is made of light wires twisted in shape and covered with paper, with a number of little gifts tied up, each one fastened to a ribbon which falls out of a hole in the under side of the ball. Then that paper roses are pasted all over the outside. This is suspended from the ceiling; the children are given the ribbons and warned to hold them lightly without pulling, and have a pretty in-and-out dance, and at its close all are told to pull the ribbons, when down comes a shower of gifts from the ball.

A new and quiet game of hide-and-seek is called "cuckoo." The children sit in a circle on the floor, and one child leaves the room and hides, calling, when hidden, "Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" The rest must sit still and guess where the child is, guided by the calls which keep on from time to time. As soon as the place is guessed the one who is right hides, and the other comes back to the circle.—Harper's Bazar.

THE AILING HABIT.

There are a great number of people who have fallen into the habit of never feeling well. No matter how soundly they sleep, how good their appetites, or how healthy they appear to be, every inquiry in regard to their condition receives the same stereotyped depressing answer: "Not very well," "About the same," or "Not so well."

They are like the sailors who tell their pet yarus so often they really come to believe them themselves. This ailing habit is especially active during the spring. People who suffer from this habit will find that self-confidence is a wonderful tonic. Their resisting power, that innate force which is given for self-protection is a safeguard against mental and physical ills.

Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Robert Louis Stevenson, Dr. Samuel Johnson and many other eminent men conquered real physical ills in order to pursue their work. If they had declined to work because of not feeling very well they would never have accomplished anything of note.

Don't allow yourself to become a slave to the miserable little absorbers of health and happiness.

WOMEN OF THE GREAT WEST.

We mentioned to some friends that we had aimed to acquire a little wisdom on the simple life, by studying these new countries; but they went into spasms of impolite laughter at the suggestion. It seems that the women hold on to all the frills they used to know, and acquire all the new ones they can hear of, as a means of proving their social status and of transforming their present place of residence into the nearest possible semblance of the one they left behind. When they move into town, off the ranches, and discard sunbonnets and Mother Hubbards, they wear chiffon hats with brims a few inches wider than eastern modes. After a few years of town and club life they become—oh, wearisomely like everyone else! One of them, herself a woman of brains and energy said that no one lived the simple life here, because none had the strength of mind to follow the recipe.

"And that is?" we asked.
"Just to be yourself," she answered. And we thought she was quite right.—Marion Foster Washburne, in Harper's Bazar.

MAKE HOME ATTRACTIVE.

To the up-to-date homemaker this question of making the house attractive after the dinner hour is the most important one, and the shading of artificial light is the secret of the room beautiful when old Sol is out of sight. Of the four methods by which this is accomplished, the oil lamp is the coziest and for practical purposes the most artistic. Especially in winter nights it sheds a warm glow over a room, and a good book or the evening paper under its steady light is enjoyed in solid comfort.—Indianapolis News.

-Pretty Things- to Wear

A prominent nose wants a hat prominent in outline.

Touchees of velvet abound in all silk and light wool gowns.

Lace coats are a salient feature of fall style for inferior wear and are appearing in almost all kinds of lace.

Lace robes, in princesses, Lierre, Irish crochet and Chantilly, are elected for widespread favor for evening wear.

Velvet vests sometimes accompany coats of broadcloth. Touches of gold are prevalent in autumn toilettes and in evening cloaks.

Moire ribbons, from inch-wide to sash width, will be used in trimmings of gowns and coats of broadcloth, in conjunction with other trimmings.

The winter neckwear lines include many specimens in handmade lace, and there is a tendency toward the more general wearing of hand laces than in many years.

The new Japanese and Persian bands in dress trimming lines are the most attractive shown in many seasons. They will be a strong feature of dress and coat decorations.

The current season will be an exceptional one for silk waistings. Plaids, checks and small brocade designs all appear in full waists for wear under costume coats. Also moires in fancy effect.

Caracul, dyed the color of the cloth, is being used for trimmings and accessories of coats and costumes of broadcloth. Sable, broadtail, ermine and mink are the popular furs for the purpose.

One-tone or changeable chiffon cloth is one of the novelties of the season for evening gowns. The radium silks, for the same purpose, are shown in the retail stores in a variety of exquisite shades.

Twelve million six hundred thousand is the estimate of the number of the famous Rocky Ford cantaloupes shipped from the Rocky Ford district, in Colorado, last season.

NEW STATE WILL HAVE MANY MANUFACTURES

Washington, Feb. 19.—The Bureau of the Census has just made public the statistics of manufacturers for 1905, of the four territories it is proposed to bring into the Union as two states. These figures show that, if joined, Oklahoma and Indian Territory will have as a state far greater manufacturing importance than perhaps any of the States had at the time of their admission.

The value of Indian Territory's manufacture's last year, for example, was $7,909,451, an increase of more than 200 per cent over the value of the manufactures of 1900. The value of Oklahoma's manufactured products last year was $16,544,656, an increase in five years of 200.6 per cent, or just .02 per cent less than the increase in Indian Territory.

There are 466 manufacturing establishments in Indian Territory, an increase of 160 per cent and 676 in Oklahoma, an increase of 107 per cent. In Indian Territory the capital invested in manufacturing is $5,016,654, an increase of 215 per cent in five years, and in Oklahoma $11,107,783, an increase of 315 per cent.

There are 2,257 wage earners in Indian Territory, earning $1,144,076 annually, and 3,199 in Oklahoma, earning $1,655,324. The new state, therefore, would have nearly 5,500 men engaged in the labor of factories.

TWO MEN APPREHENDED FOR SASAKWA KILLING

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 19.—Deputy Marshal John Cordell of Muskogee has brought to Muskogee Barney Fixico and an Indian known as "Wild Cat," who with several others are charged with the killing of Billy Cully, a prominent Seminole Indian light horse man, five miles west of Sasakwa on the night of Feb. 3.

Deputy Marshal Bass Reeves of this city identified "Wild Cat" as an Indian he arrested twenty years ago while he was Deputy United States Marshal at Fort Smith. The jail records substantiate Reeves. The officer was sent to the territory to arrest "Wild Cat" and while on his way to the Arkansas line the Indian escaped and this is the first time the officers have seen him since. It was thought the man was dead long ago.

A Failure at Stonewall.

The Citizens' Bank and Trust Company, of Stonewall, a territorial corporation which has been doing largely a land and trading business, closed its doors last Saturday.

The same day a suit was filed in the clerk's office at Ada against the company by the Union National Bank of Kansas City, Mo. It was a complaint in equity alleging defendant owes plaintiff $2,500; that defendant is insolvent; has fraudulently transferred its assets; praying for dissolution of the company; an accounting by its officers and for a receiver to take charge of its property and business.

S. O. Daws, president of the Indian Farmers' Union, came down from Shawnee today and spent a few hours in Ada.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF GEN. WHEELER

Sunday afternoon the members of the W. L. Byrd Camp Confederate Veterans met in the News building pursuant to arrangements. Because of the continuous downpour of rain, the elaborate Wheeler memorial service announced to occur at the Presbyterian Church had to be postponed until the 25th. There was a short business session of the camp. Otis B. Weaver of the U. S. C. V., tendered the veterans the use of the News building for their meeting, which offer was gratefully accepted by the camp.

Comrade J. P. Wood introduced the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the body.

Whereas, The members of the Wm. L. Byrd Camp of Confederate Veterans have heard with profound sorrow of the death of our distinguished Comrade, General Joseph Wheeler of Alabama, and

Whereas, We, even in our grief, are proud of our ever loyal comrade, be it therefore resolved:

1st. That in the death of General Joseph Wheeler the South has lost one of her most devoted sons and the nation one of her ablest defenders, who was distinguished by courage without rashness, by wisdom without pride, by gentleness without weakness, by patience without headlessness and by justice which always leans towards mercy.

2d. That we declare that both at peace and in war he discharged his whole duty as he saw it.

3d. That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this camp and that the newspapers of Ada be requested to publish the same.

J. P. Wood,
J. M. Dos,
J. A. Morgan,

WERE MARRIED AMID SCENES OF SPLENDOR

Washington, Feb. 18.—With a plain circlet of virgin gold, in the historical East Room of the White House at thirteen minutes past 12 o'clock Saturday, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the Representative in Congress from the First District of Ohio, were united in marriage.

The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the devotional beauty of a cathedral service. No ceremony of a similar kind was ever witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests, not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal commissioners of the Kings and potentates of the Powers of the civilized world constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest but the most distinguished that ever was witnessed at one time in the White House.

A halo of a hundred years of romantic White House history hung over the bridal couple. Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride, according to accepted authorities, to plight her troth within its classic walls.

The ceremony took place in the East Room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations and the brilliant sunlight of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

PRESIDENT WILL PROBE TERRITORIAL CORRUPTION

Washington, Feb. 19.—President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the charges of fraud and corruption which are said to have occurred in connection with the affairs of the Five Civilized Tribes in Indian Territory. But for his interference indictments against several parties alleged to have been engaged in illegal practices would have been quashed. Now, however, under his orders the Interior Department is pushing its investigation with increased vigor and it is reliably stated that in the near future a number of new indictments will be reported against not only several men already indicted, but they will also include a number of persons whose names have not heretofore been brought into the case, including a high Government official in Washington.

It is known that Secretary Hitchcock has submitted to the President and to the Attorney General a special report dealing with the whole subject, which, it is said, gives such details as to make it imperative for the Government to act. For obvious reasons the report for the present, at least, will not be made public, but Secretary Hitchcock characterizes the disclosures it makes as "startling."

GRASS.

Did you ever notice how eagerly the corn-fed horse seeks the grass in the Spring? Not solely because he is hungry, instinct tells him he needs it. His system demands a tonic and purgative to drive out impurities, and the young tender grass is his natural medicine. All animal nature craves its particular 'Spring Tonic' and purifier and none have greater need of it than the human animal. Man, because none give their digestive organs so much abuse. All men acknowledge nature's cry for relief from Winter's impurities, but there are thousands who do nothing to satisfy this need, and it is among these that disease reaps its harvest of death every year. The man who knows the value of a strong vigorous body when hot weather works a drain upon his strength will use for a couple of weeks in the early Spring a good blood purifier and system regulator, and where can you find a better remedy for this purpose than PRICKLY ASH BITTERS, the great blood, liver and bowel cleanser and system regulator that has done so much for working people. It vitalizes the blood and puts the entire system in condition for Summer work. Try it.

DO YOU FEEL LIKE THIS?

Here is a victim of neglect.

Bad digestion was the starting point. He ignored the warnings sent up by an overloaded and suffering stomach, hence the disorder spread until it has seriously weakened the entire digestive apparatus, involving the kidneys, liver and bowels. It is the beginning of a sick spell.

A person in this state of health finds work a burden. Strength and energy are gone, he can't eat with relish, he is tired, cross, nervous and dull—a truly useless and disagreeable person. The worst part about it is that such a person is liable to take any dangerous disease that may be about. Pneumonia, Consumption, Bright's Disease, Cholera, Typhoid or Yellow Fever, Malaria, Small Pox would find him an easy mark because his system is weakened by impurities which are poisoning his very life-blood. In this condition a powerful system cleanser and regulator is urgently needed, and for such purpose what more effective remedy can be found than the justly celebrated

Prickly Ash Bitters

A Remedy that Has Proved Its Value For Blood, Kidney and Bowel Disorders in a Brilliant Record of Cures Performed.

It is the right medicine for such purpose, the best and greatest system cleanser and regulator. It combines the fine tonic properties of a kidney medicine, stomach, liver and blood purifier with a genial regulating influence in the bowels. It will gently urge the vital organs to a better and more complete performance of their duties, give them strength and tone and restore healthy activity throughout the body. When the system has been cleared of obstructions and the kidneys resume fully their office of purifying the blood, the general condition takes an upward turn. Appetite and digestion are improved, the eyes are brighter, the hollow cheeks fill out, the complexion loses that sallow, muddy cast, giving place to a clear skin and ruddy glow. These are the signals of returning health, and they bring that thrill and joy of living and interest in life's duties that only those in perfect health enjoy.

COURAGE WAS APPRECIATED.

IN the winter of 1864 Lee's army was in camp along the Rapidan River. The Union forces under Meade occupied the country across the river. General Merritt was then a cavalry commander, and the cavalry were always busy making reconnaissances, although the severity of the weather had suspended other operations. General Merritt tells this story:

One morning in February my division of cavalry started with instructions to discover the extent of the enemy's force on the Rapidan without bringing on a general engagement. In due time we found ourselves face to face with the enemy, and the river between. A lively skirmish with small arms began, but the result was insignificant. The enemy declined to show force beyond what was necessary to engage our skirmish line. The breastworks were long and formidable, but whether they were occupied by few or many soldiers our most ingenious plans failed to discover.

It was finally decided that the only way to make the enemy show his force was to try to cross the ford in our front. If this succeeded, the enemy was to be driven out of his works, if possible; if not, he would drive us back across the ford, probably with severe loss to our troops. Reluctantly, under these conditions, the division was organized for the work.

Leading the advance guard, which consisted of a squadron of cavalry, was Captain Ash. His instructions contemplated that only his advance guard should cross. It was hoped that this maneuver would draw the enemy from behind his breastworks and cause him to display his force. Ash advanced with his squadron amid the stillness of death. The skirmish firing was hushed, and the silence which prevailed showed that the enemy was intent on keeping us in ignorance of their numbers and determined to make us pay heavily for information.

The anxiety was intense. We knew that when the enemy opened fire at short range our loss would be great, and that the advance guard must be the first and greatest sufferers. Ash, with his small command, moved on. The works in front, gloomy, silent, denuded, seemed deserted. The men started to cross the ford, and Ash pushed on ahead. He gained a point of vantage where, because of a turn in the river, he could see the interior of the breastworks.

Just then the Confederates opened fire with a withering volley. Suddenly Ash commanded his squadron to retreat, while he, bending forward on his horse's neck, rode at a rapid gallop along the river bank parallel to the breastworks, followed, as he came opposite each new part of the works by volley after volley.

There seemed no hope for him, and we waited in intense anxiety. On he kept, in spite of the storm of lead. Then, as he reached a point where his view of the Confederate lines was still more extended, he raised his hat and waved it over his head. It was a signal of triumph.

To our amazement, the Confederates, moved by admiration, ceased firing. Instead, they mounted on the breastworks as thick as they could stand, and throwing their hats into the air, cheered him again and again.

Ash reined up his horse, and turning toward the Confederates, raised his hat in a graceful salute. Then he rode leisurely into our own lines, and the cheers of both sides. He had accomplished the work without the loss of a man, and had for himself seen, and displayed to every one else, a full force of infantry occupying the Confederate works.

Captain Ash said afterward that he had not thought of the scheme of drawing out the enemy's force until he had reached the brink of the river and saw the great number who occupied the works. To go on meant certain death to many of his command; to retreat in the direct line of fire was equally disastrous; and the inspiration to do what he did suddenly seized him.

I need not say that as we cheered the bold rider our hearts went out to the generous foe who appreciated and chivalrously acknowledged a gallant act.

OUTWITTING THE PRUSSIAN.

The little village of Josses is situated on the route covered by the Prussians in the Franco-Prussian War of 1871. The peasants of the neighborhood never weary of relating their experiences with the soldiers from over the border.

The Prussian soldiers had a little way of carrying off with them any good horses they came across. Monsieur Lemaire owned the finest horse in the village, and was determined not to give the animal up if he could help it. A company of soldiers passed through the town, picking up several horses as they went, much to the chagrin of their owners. After the raid was over the neighbors were surprised to learn that Monsieur Lemaire's horse had not been among those seized.

The quick-witted Frenchman had tied a piece of twine about the horse's hind leg, almost stopping the flow of blood. The leg swelled, and the animal became so lame that the officers who saw him in the pasture did not even make an attempt to take him. After the passing of the soldiery, the string was removed and the member carefully bandaged. In a week the horse was as well as ever.

At various times the peasants were compelled to quarter the soldiers. Not only were they forced to supply food and lodging, but anything of value in the house was pretty likely to be seized by the unwelcome visitors. The pride of one little home was a clock that had been owned by the family for nearly a century. When it was learned that the soldiers were coming, at the suggestion of the mother families the clock was taken to pieces and the parts hidden in different places about the house.

The soldiers arrived. After they had been there a couple of days the peasant returned from his work at night to find the clock standing on the shelf, ticking away as usual. One of the Prussians, being of a mechanical turn, had discovered the ruse. He had accordingly hunted up all the pieces of the clock and put them together. The soldiers were ordered elsewhere a day or two later, but the clock was left behind.

All through that section of the country, known as the "granary of France," there are windmills. Unlike the mills of Holland, or the very modern windmills of our own farms, which turn as the wind shifts, the huge fans of the French mills are turned about by a hand-lever.

During the war these mills did good service in indicating to the French officers the whereabouts of the Prussian army. The fans of the mills were arranged so that they faced the spot where the forces of the enemy were the thickest, the mills thus serving as signals that could be seen a long distance away. The Prussians never learned the trick, which was employed all through the war.

SAVED BY A WHISTLE.

The pure white color of the mountain sheep of Alaska makes him very conspicuous except when he is lying on a snow patch, and in the clear air of the Alaskan mountains one can see sheep for a long distance. Colonel Carr, in "Summer and Fall in Western Alaska," tells of following a band of these mountain sheep over a desolate stretch of country, only to lose a shot at them through the approach of another enemy.

We had just arrived at the canon and were still out of sight, when we saw the five big fellows leisurely crossing by a narrow sheep trail some distance below us. They did not go far, but lay down on the opposite slope on a spot from which we were full in sight, but where they could be easily got at once we could get into the ravine among the broken ground.

To do this, however, required very careful crawling in full view, over absolutely broken ground, consisting of a steep slope of shale; and the only way to reach a practicable path into the canon was by descending until we were in full view of all the rest of the sheep, which were lying about in groups on a flat plateau.

We had very nearly got to a position of safety, and were lying perfectly motionless, looking at the sheep below us through the glass, and also watching the antics of several large gray marmots which were feeding about among them, when a catastrophe occurred. The marmots all of a sudden began, each and all, to whistle for all they were worth, and to bolt frantically for their holes.

In a second every sheep was on its legs, and our five patriars, after standing a moment in indecision, bolted as hard as they could go, and in less time than it takes to write it not a sheep was in sight.

I felt quite certain that we were not the cause of this stampede. Indeed, the sheep seemed quite unsuspicious until disturbed by the marmots, and I could not make it out at all until I chanced to look upward, when I saw two fine golden eagles sailing overhead, evidently hunting for game. This must have frightened the marmots, and perhaps the ewes also had fears for the safety of their lambs.

A MOTHER'S TERRIBLE FLIGHT.

A poignant story of a mother's terrible experience was told at an inquest held at Hilguy, a village near Downham Market, Norfolk. A boy of two, named Arthur Leonard Knightball, was found by his mother to have fallen into a ditch. She jumped to his rescue and lifted the little lad out of the water, but became herself so firmly embedded in the mud, which was up to her knees, that she was unable to climb out of the ditch. All her struggles to move proved useless, and her screams for help were not heard. While thus a prisoner her boy died in her arms, and she cried over his body for an hour and a half before her husband and a fellow workman, returning home, rescued her, exhausted by her burden and almost fainting with grief. The jury at the inquest complimented the mother, and expressed sympathy with the parents.—London Mail.

A PHILIPPINE HEROINE.

Not many years ago the Philippines produced a lady fighter of rare courage in Josephine Bracken, whose lover, Jose Rizal, had been brutally shot by the Spaniards on the very eve of his marriage to her. From the moment that Jose fell ridden by the bullets of a picket of the Tenth Spanish Infantry Regiment his fiancée dedicated her life to revenge. She joined the insurgents and fought for many months in the thickest of every battle, with a recklessness which amazed all who saw her. She bore a charmed life, and after escaping death a hundred times she undertook a journey to Japan, and later to America, to procure arms. She is living to-day at Hong-Kong quite ready, no doubt, to shoulder a rifle again against the murderers of her lover.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

CHEESE CAKES.

Boil one pound of sugar in two-thirds of a pint of water for fifteen minutes. Stir in one and a half cups of coconut and boil fifteen minutes longer. Add a quarter of a pound of butter and lastly the yolks of seven eggs well beaten. Bake in patty pans lined with rich paste.

DREAM SANDWICHES.

Chop fine one-half cup pecan nuts, one-half cup stoned raisins, one apple, add juice of half a lemon and one spoonful sugar. Mix thoroughly and spread thinly between thin slices of buttered bread from which the crust has been removed.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD.

Two cupsful of yellow cornmeal, one cupful of rye meal, one cupful of flour, two cupsful of milk, one cupful of molasses, one-half of a teaspoonful of salt, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well together, pour into a well-greased brown-bread mold and steam for four hours.

MACARONI WITH OYSTERS.

Cook for twenty minutes or until soft one-quarter of a pound of macaroni in salted boiling water. Place half in a buttered dish, then put in one point of oysters dried, rolled in seasoned crumbs and then in grated cheese. Cover with the remainder of the macaroni; pour over an egg beaten with a cup of thin cream and saltspoonful of salt; sprinkle lightly with grated cheese and bake in a quick oven until richly browned.

APRICOT TAPIOCA.

Soak one cupful of fine tapioca for two hours in sufficient cold water to cover. Drain, put into a double boiler with one-quarter of a cupful of sugar and the syrup drained from a can of apricots, adding boiling water sufficient to give three cupsful of liquid. Add one-half of a teaspoonful of salt and cook until transparent. Cut each piece of apricot into three and put in layers in a pudding dish with the cooked tapioca. Bake for half an hour in a moderate oven and serve with cream.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Cold rain water and soap will remove machine oil.

Cloves or salt sprinkled on a pantry shelf will rid it of ants.

Oil water can be cleared by adding a few spoonfuls of cornmeal.

A pinch of salt in the coffee pot will improve aroma of the coffee.

Bathing the face in cold water while it is hot and flushed will make the skin coarse.

A good nap and a hot bath will add much to the beauty of a homely woman.

A lump of camphor in your wardrobe will keep steel buttons and ornaments from tarnishing.

Dry the potato peelings, and by using these you can light a fire with about four pieces of firewood.

Ceranium leaves are said to form a good dressing for cuts and wounds where the skin is rubbed off.

A spoonful of mustard in a gallon of water will kill insects in the earth. This is good for potted plants.

A tablespoonful of coal oil in a basin of water will clean window glasses and mirrors and not leave them clouded.

If hot soda and thorough flushing will not keep pipes sweet there is something wrong with the plumbing.

Never throw away bits of cheese, even if they are hard and dry. Grate them and put them aside in a jar, for seasoning.

The boiling of corks for a few minutes will cause them to slip easily into the neck of the bottle for which they are intended.

Coal oil will destroy bedbugs. Use plentifully. It will leave no stain—it evaporates. It will clean furniture and remove white stains.

A solution of salt and water is an excellent remedy for sore throat, an unequalled wash for weak eyes—or eyes that are inflamed and sore.

Particles of grease sometimes lodge in the sink pipe and cause an unpleasant odor. The hot soda dissolves this grease and carries it away.

An old refrigerator which has a lining of tin may be made to look cleaner by applying two coats of white paint, and then two coats of white enamel.

No substance that might clog the pipes should ever be thrown into closet or basin. Here are some of the things: Hair, lint, pieces of rags, no matter how small, matches and fruit peelings.

Powdered charcoal is the best remedy for a superficial burn. If laid thickly on the injured part immediately it will take away the pain and heal the burn very rapidly.

If shelves and floors of closets are wiped with water which is hot with cayenne pepper, and afterwards sprinkled with borax and alum, roaches and other vermin are kept at bay.

Flowers keep better in damp sand than in water, and a centerpiece of flowers for the table may be more gracefully and firmly arranged in a jar of wet sand than in a foundation of moss.

Tomfoolery

FLEA, FLY, FLUE.
A flea and a fly in a flue,
Were imprisoned; now what could they do?
Said the fly, "Let us flee."
"Let us fly," said the flea,
And they flew through a flaw in the flue.

"Where did you spend your vacation?"

"Oh, I always go to the same place," the Pool-kicker replied. "In summer you will always find me at the rapids of Niagara."

KEPT HER WORD.

Tess—"So you're really engaged to him. I thought you said you wouldn't marry him if he were the last man in the world."

Jess—"Well, he isn't, is he?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A SCHEMER.

"Kin youse let me have a dollar, sir?" asked Prayed Eugin.

"Why should I give you a dollar?" growled the citizen addressed.

"Andrew Carnegie has promised me dat amount when I kin raise a similar sum."

MONEY REFUNDED.

"How're you making out at the opera house?"

"We turned 'em away last night."

"G'wan."

"Fact. Sixteen of 'em. Manager said it was no use burnin' gas for a non-dollar house."

DIFFERENT.

LOOKING FOR JOKES.

"What could that spruce, man-about-town looking gentleman possibly want with an almanac?" asked the drug store lounge.

"Oh, he finds 'em useful in his business," responded the druggist. "He writes comic operas."

A DIPLOMAT.

"Dear old Henry! I am glad he is so fortunate."

"How fortunate?"

"Why, he just told me that marriage was the grandest institution on earth."

"Yes, I heard him; but didn't you notice that his wife was present?"—Houston Post.

HIS MODEST REQUEST.

They had been married all of twenty-four hours.

"Cordella, dear," he inquired eagerly, "do you still love me?"

"Why, of course I do, Clarence, you foolish old darling," she answered.

"Are you willing to prove it?"

"Sure thing. But how can I?"

"By changing your complexion. The kind you are using now doesn't taste good to me."—Detroit Tribune.

SCARED OUT.

"Why did the Earl break the engagement?"

"Oh, he became afraid, when he found out her father was president of a life insurance company, that the old man would appoint him a vice-president or give him some other kind of a job that would make it necessary for him to at least memorize the figures referring to the assets and liabilities."—Chicago Record-Herald.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

TYRANNY OF FASHION.

Under examination in Brighton Bankruptcy Court yesterday a Hove tailor attributed his failure to the change of fashion brought about by the use of motor-cars. A considerable portion of his business formerly consisted, he stated, in supplying liveries for people who kept carriages, and who required liveries for their coachmen and footmen, as well as two or three others employed in the stables. But with motor-cars the only person requiring livery was the chauffeur, who generally obtained his clothes elsewhere than at a tailor's.—London Telegraph.

SMOKING FASHIONABLE.

Smocking is always good in children's gowns. At some of the shops where a specialty is made of handsome garments, fancy smocking is done at not exactly prohibitive prices. For tiny girls, the prettiest little gowns imaginable are made in perfectly simple models. The smocking occurs in the yoke and cuffs of the slips, which are straight little garments something like those worn by Kate Greenaway picture book children. Very simple and inexpensive materials are used for these gowns, ginghams, coarse linens, pongees and china silks being best adapted. Smocked waists are very effective for older girls and even mature women.

BRACELET FAD BEMOANED.

It is hard for the woman who can't afford fads in jewelry to hear that five jeweled bracelets must be worn this year if one wishes to be in the extreme of the fashion. "Why not make it six?" she asks, for in that event the jeweler might make a reduction on the lot, which would help things along a little. Mrs. William B. Leeds has caught this bracelet mania and lately has been seen wearing four gold circlets set with black and white pearls on one of her beautiful arms, which some one has said are "fashioned after the Venus of Milo's long lost pattern." On the other arm was a single band of the same design. Bracelets worn by fashionable women this season must match in color, even though they are entirely different in design and cost. The triumph of the bracelet, jewelers say, will occur about the time the opera season begins and social festivity is let loose in New York. Then the rivalry in this line will be worth going out of one's way to see.

A WOMAN ENGINEER.

Mrs. W. G. Manning, who lives seven miles south of Monroe City, is probably the only woman engineer in Missouri.

Her husband operates a sawmill, and for two years Mrs. Manning has acted as engineer. Mr. Manning says:

"Prior to two years ago I employed men at different times as engineer, all of whom were more or less unsatisfactory. Upon one occasion the engineer did not show up. My wife told me to turn the engine over to her."

"At first I hesitated, but finally decided to let her try it. To my surprise she handled the engine all right and we did one of the best day's work of the season. For two years she has run the engine with little expense for repairs. She readily detects lost motion or other defects, and, when necessary, will shut down to make repairs. If the log is a large one or knotty she regulates the power accordingly, and keeps the speed uniform."

"I've tried several engineers, but she's the best one I ever had."—Philadelphia Record.

CHILDREN'S BIRTHDAY PARTY.

For small children there is a new Jack Horner pie which is charming. A great ball, three or four feet in diameter, is made of light wires twisted in shape and covered with paper, with a number of little gifts tied up, each one fastened to a ribbon which falls out of a hole in the under side of the ball. Then flat paper roses are pasted all over the outside. This is suspended from the ceiling; the children are given the ribbons and warned to hold them tightly without pulling, and have a pretty in-and-out dance, and at its close all are told to pull the ribbons, when down comes a shower of gifts from the ball.

A new and quiet game of hide-and-seek is called "cuckoo." The children sit in a circle on the floor, and one child leaves the room and hides, calling, when hidden, "Cuckoo! Cuckoo!" The rest must sit still and guess where the child is, guided by the calls which keep on from time to time. As soon as the place is guessed the one who is right hides, and the other comes back to the circle.—Harper's Bazar.

THE AILING HABIT.

There are a great number of people who have fallen into the habit of never feeling well. No matter how soundly they sleep, how good their appetites, or how healthy they appear to be, every inquiry in regard to their condition receives the same stereotyped depressing answer: "Not very well."

"About the same," or "Not so well."

They are like the sailors who tell their pet yarns so often they really come to believe them themselves. This ailing habit is especially active during the spring. People who suffer from this habit will find that self-confidence is a wonderful tonic. Their resisting power, that innate force which is given for self-protection is a safeguard against mental and physical ills.

Charles Darwin, Herbert Spencer, Robert Louis Stevenson, Dr. Samuel Johnson and many other eminent men conquered real physical ills in order to pursue their work. If they had declined to work because of not feeling very well they would never have accomplished anything of note.

Don't allow yourself to become a slave to the miserable little absorbers of health and happiness.

WOMEN OF THE GREAT WEST.

We mentioned to some friends that we had aimed to acquire a little wisdom on the simple life, by studying these new countries; but they went into spasms of impolite laughter at the suggestion. It seems that the women hold on to all the frills they used to know, and acquire all the new ones they can hear of, as a means of proving their social status and of transforming their present place of residence into the nearest possible semblance of the one they left behind. When they move into town, off the ranches, and discard sunbonnets and Mother Hubbards, they wear chiffon hats with brims a few inches wider than eastern modes. After a few years of town and club life they become—oh, wearisomely like everyone else! One of them, herself a woman of brains and energy said that no one lived the simple life here, because none had the strength of mind to follow the recipe.

"And that is?" we asked.

"Just to be yourself," she answered. And we thought she was quite right.—Marion Foster Washburne, in Harper's Bazar.

MAKE HOME ATTRACTIVE.

"Give more attention to the comfort and coziness of your rooms during the evening hours," was the advice of a matron to a young bride in a maze of doubt as to what was most essential in the furnishing of her small, new home.

"It has always been my policy to make the living rooms most attractive when all the family is using them, and as my husband and boys are downtown during the day, this means during the hours after sundown. Have your home radiate cheer and complete contrast to the grayness of office walls of workday hours. This is one of the secrets of keeping your husband fond of his home."

To the up-to-date homemaker this question of making the house attractive after the dinner hour is the most important one, and the shading of artificial light is the secret of the room beautiful when old Sol is out of sight.

Of the four methods by which this is accomplished, the oil lamp is the coziest and for practical purposes the most artistic. Especially in winter nights it sheds a warm glow over a room, and a good book or the evening paper under its steady light is enjoyed in solid comfort.—Indianapolis News.

-Pretty-Things-to Wear

A prominent nose wants a hat prominent in outline.

Tonches of velvet abound in all silk and light wool gowns.

Lace coats are a salient feature of fall style for interior wear and are appearing in almost all kinds of lace.

Lace robes, in princesses, Lierre, Irish crochet and Chantilly, are elected for widespread favor for evening wear.

Velvet vests sometimes accompany coats of broadcloth. Touches of gold are prevalent in autumn toilettes and in evening cloaks.

Moire ribbons, from inch-wide to sash width, will be used in trimmings of gowns and coats of broadcloth, in conjunction with other trimmings.

The winter neckwear lines include many specimens in handmade lace, and there is a tendency toward the more general wearing of hand laces than in many years.

The new Japanese and Persian bands in dress trimming lines are the most attractive shown in many seasons. They will be a strong feature of dress and coat decorations.

The current season will be an exceptional one for silk waistings. Plaids, checks and small brocade designs all appear in full waists for wear under costume coats. Also moires in fancy effect.

Caracul, dyed the color of the cloth, is being used for trimmings and accessories of coats and costumes of broadcloth. Sable, broadtail, ermine and mink are the popular furs for the purpose.

Twotone or changeable chiffon cloth is one of the novelties of the season for evening gowns. The radium silks, for the same purpose, are shown in the retail stores in a variety of exquisite shades.

Twelve million six hundred thousand is the estimate of the number of the famous Rocky Ford cantaloupes shipped from the Rocky Ford district, in Colorado, last season.
